His Christmas Eve trek, of course, is done in a reindeer drawn sleigh but in his earlier appearance he uses cars, planes and trains, or horses. Here he is seen boarding a Rock Island passenger coach at Mokena, accompanied by admirers for a trip to Joliet. Didn't say how he got to Mokena -- just suddenly he was there.

Boosters Battle To Save Providence From Block

A valiant effort to keep Providence High School open is being made by parents who have sons and daughters enrolled there.

A mounting deficit and plus a teacher shortage were cited by the Rev. Niles Gillen, O. Carm., superintendent of schools of Joliet Diocese, as major factors in a report that recommended consolidation at the high school level.

According to Father Niles a recent study by John Barnett, a consultant in school management, recommends the closing of Providence High in Will County and Immaculate Conception High School at Elmhurst, in DuPage County.

Final decision is expected to be made Jan. 13. By that time, the diocesan school head explained, the Christian Brothers, which operate Providence, will have decided whether to transfer their teachers to other schools. The majority of the faculty at Providence are drawn from the Christian Brothers and the Sisters of Providence.

At a meeting last week in Providence High, Father Niles told the parents that a study of the 10 diocesan high schools showed that eight could do the job. More than 50 per cent of the enrollment of 557 at Providence comes from Joliet, he said, and more than 20 percent from villages that as close to Joliet as to New Lenox. About 15 per cent come from New Lenox and areas to the east and the remainder from out of the diocese.

On Tuesday night of this week some 30 individuals were to have met with the idea of launching a fund drive for the express purpose of keeping Providence open. Because of mechanical problems it is impossible to relate what transpired at Tuesday's meeting in this issue.

Father Niles said that the diocese has a half million dollar educational assistance fund and of this $400,000 is available for high schools, the other $100,000 being put aside to help the grade schools.

The high schools are running about $570,000 in the red this year, it was said, and in the 1969-70 school year it is estimated the deficit will rise to approximately $862,000.

Vern Ridings, of 1619 Rowell Av., Joliet, one of the parents planning to seek funds to keep Providence open, was quoted as saying that, between the money that has been raised and the funds that will be raised, there should be something in excess of $55,000 to apply on the current deficit. It is estimated that the deficit at Providence this year will range from $80,000 to $90,000, with a part of it covered by the diocesan assistance fund.

According to Ridings the recent car drive will net $25,000; the fall festival last weekend is expected to add $4,500. Profit from a recent spaghetti dinner came to $800 and individual donations have accounted for another $1,200.

He said that it is hoped to realize $1,500 on the school's New Year's Eve dance; $2,250 from a style show; $6,000 from a dinner dance at Lewis College next Spring, and $14,000 from the operation of the school cafeteria. Last year lunches were made available thru a vending service but this year the parents took over the operation of the cafeteria.

Of the four Will County Catholic high schools it is generally agreed that the location of Providence near the interchange of I-80 and U.S. 30 makes it the most saleable. Besides the commercial possibilities of the site -- 30 acres -- it could also be a market for the school as an educational institution.

The Lincoln-Way High School board and the New Lenox Grade School board have made no public utterance on the subject but it is known that both districts would be interested if the diocesan authorities decide to sell Providence. Then, of course, the big factor would be the price and whether either district could raise the necessary funds to meet it, it was pointed out. A spokesman said, however, there would be no competitive bidding by the two districts.

Efforts are being made to get state and federal aid for parochial schools. Providence parents are hopeful that if they can bail the school out this year and next that such assistance will be forthcoming and so save Providence.

Hold Funeral Today For Ida Jacobsen, 89

Mrs. Ida M. Jacobsen, 89, who resided on Carpenter St., Mokena, died Tuesday, Dec. 3, at Silver Cross Hospital, Joliet, following a long illness.

She was born in Indiana on Sept. 7, 1879, but had lived in the Mokena area for the past 25 years. She was preceded in death by her husband, Jacob Jacobsen in 1946, a son William, and a grandson, Donald. Her only survivors is a granddaughter, Mrs. Martha Bell, of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon (Dec. 5) at 1 o'clock from the Hirsch Memorial Chapel, Tinley Park, with the Rev. Laslo Hunyady, pastor of St. John's United Church of Christ at Mokena, officiating. Interment will be in St. John's Cemetery.

"FROM THERE TO HERE" - Mrs. Chloe White, (seated), seems to be saying as she explains the operation of reader-printer equipment inside the micro-media mobile laboratory recently put into service for use by the 62 elementary and secondary school district members of the Educational Development Cooperative (EDC) of South Cook and North Will counties. S.P. Monteith, (right), superintendent of Steger Elementary District 194 and EDC president for the 1968-69 year, and Mrs. Virginia Stupka, District 194's office manager, are the listeners. Mrs. White, micro-media coordinator, is currently making the rounds of districts interested in the micro-media operation to explain the filming and retrieval process which makes it possible to dispose of many outdated and voluminous records once they are recorded on small film rolls. The mobile unit's equipment can micro-film documents at the rate of about 600 per minute and one roll of film, costing the district about $5, will record about 3,000 documents.

How To Conserve Time And Energy In Holidays

Be your own efficiency expert in planning for the holidays.

Bea Bagby, Will County Extension Adviser, suggests that you take time to decide what's important and what isn't. You may find that some activities have become habits that no longer interest your family.

Mrs. Bagby says that too frequently homemakers continue to handle their regular workload as usual while trying to accommodate special Christmas activities. When shopping, decorating, sending cards, entertaining and traveling are added to the regular routine, a hectic holiday can result. And your understandable frustrations can put a strain on the whole family.

Get organized before you tackle your holiday jobs. For instance, revise your card list before you start addressing envelopes. Keep paper and pencil handy so that you can make notes as you get ideas for your gift list, your holiday menus, grocery lists and cleaning chores.

To spare your feet and save your time, substitute a phone call for a tiring shopping trip whenever possible. Mail-order shopping can solve the baby-sitter problem if you have young children at home. And working mothers especially will find catalog browsing and shopping by mail efficient time-savers.

Take advantage of convenience foods to simplify meal preparations. You might also use prepared mixes for some of your holiday baking.

Frankfort Board Acts To Insure The Water Supply

With the original well at Frankfort practically exhausted the village board is now considering making a direct connection between the new well in Community Park and the elevated storage tank at the village hall. This would insure an ample water supply.

Doris Erdmann Dies; Hold Rites Wednesday

Mrs. Doris E. Erdmann, 42, of Haas Rd., Homer Township, died Sunday, Dec. 1, at Silver Cross Hospital, following a long illness.

Born at Palestine, Ill., Mrs. Erdmann had been a resident of Homer for the past 15 years. Prior to that she had resided at Frankfort for seven years. She was a member of the Frankfort Methodist Church and of the Homer School Club.

Besides her husband, Robert J., Mrs. Erdmann is survived by two sons and two daughters, David, Kevin, Marcia and Lori; also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Schifler, Manhattan; two brothers, Carl Schifler, of Mokena, Ramon, of Manhattan, and six sisters, Neva, Mrs. Calvert Heath, Lincoln Estates; Ina, Mrs. Marvin Bartling, Matteson; Jean, Mrs. Lester Erdmann, Wilmington; Glenda, Mrs. Wayne Bode, Monee; Miss Carol, of Colombia, South America, and Miss Joyce Schifler, of Manhattan.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday (Wednesday) morning at 11 o'clock at the Baskerville Chapel, Lincoln Highway and Roberts Rd., New Lenox, with the Rev. James Parker, pastor of the Methodist Church at Mundelein and former pastor of the Frankfort Church, and the Rev. Charles Kepler, present pastor, officiating. Interment was in Skyline Memorial Park Cemetery at Monee.

The board let a contract for the underground work at the new well this week to Hulet Co. of Oak Forest in the sum of $16,335.25. There were two other bids, Foschi Bros., Joliet, $16,834.50 and Tri-State Pipeline Co., Joliet, $18,966.

The board plans to include the well-tank connection job in the contract. The village hall well can be replaced later, it was said.

At the meeting two weeks ago Trustee John Topp, head of the water committee, warned that the well at the

An engineer, John Djerf, who is associated with Robert Hamilton, village engineer, told the board that in his opinion it would cost less to drill a new hole instead of deepening the failing well but it would still be cheaper to connect the tank to the new well.

In tests the new well pumped in excess of 1,000 gallons per minute, showing an ample vein of water but it was said that if it were set to pump 250 or 300 gallons a minute that would furnish water for the tank as well as the mains. In the event of necessity, such as a big fire for example, the flow could be stepped up, it was said.

The board discussed two possible ordinances but admitted that if adopted the village would have to rely on voluntary acquiescence by the individuals or firms involved for enforcement. One was a measure to require any industry or business coming into the area to utilize the 1890 theme of the Chamber of Commerce in its architecture. The Chamber would like to have such an ordinance passed, Mayor Glenn Warning told the board, but agreed with other board members that such a measure could not be enforced. Village Attorney August Santoro said such an ordinance would not stand up if taken to court, nor would an ordinance establishing a route thru the village that trucks must follow.

The board may pass these ordinances, however, it was indicated, with the hopes of having people comply with them on a voluntary basis.

It was announced that Standard Oil is going to remove the old, unsightly bulk storage tanks and loading dock along the New York Central tracks east of White St.

Village Attorney Santoro reported to the board that the operator of the auction on U.S. 30 east of U.S. 45 has told him he has folded up the "Flea market" and with that out of business there will be no use of out of doors power speakers. The village had been getting complaints on both.

Science for the Family

Games Important to Child's Ego

Copyright 1968 World Book
Science Service

Healthy development of a child's ego depends, to a large extent, on the games parents play with it during infancy, according to Dr. Justin Call of the University of California at Los Angeles.

"Such games as 'peek-a-boo' are an important part of a child's psychological development," he says.

Dr. Call believes that lack of such play experience can lead to mental and emotional disturbance, probably the most difficult and discouraging of all childhood problems to treat.

An approach to these problems at the community level is being made at the Reiss-Davis Clinic in Los Angeles. The object is to keep the disturbed child in the family, rather than send him to a distant state hospital.

"The idea that the 'liberation of the child from adult pressures' is all that is needed is a delusion," says Dr. Rocco L. Motto, director of the clinic.

"Now that analysts have begun to work with children seriously they've come to grips with their real lives, rather than with reconstructions from the couch fantasies of neurotic adults."

Medical MEMO

By BETTY JOHN

At the clinic, the totality of each child's personality is recognized as a developing interrelation between inner self and outer environment, including the family and even the doctor. This takes a long period of observation.

Since behavior patterns are transitory and difficult to record, the clinic employs one-way screening windows, tape recorders, moving picture machines, TV cameras, and monitoring screens to reproduce information and store it for study.

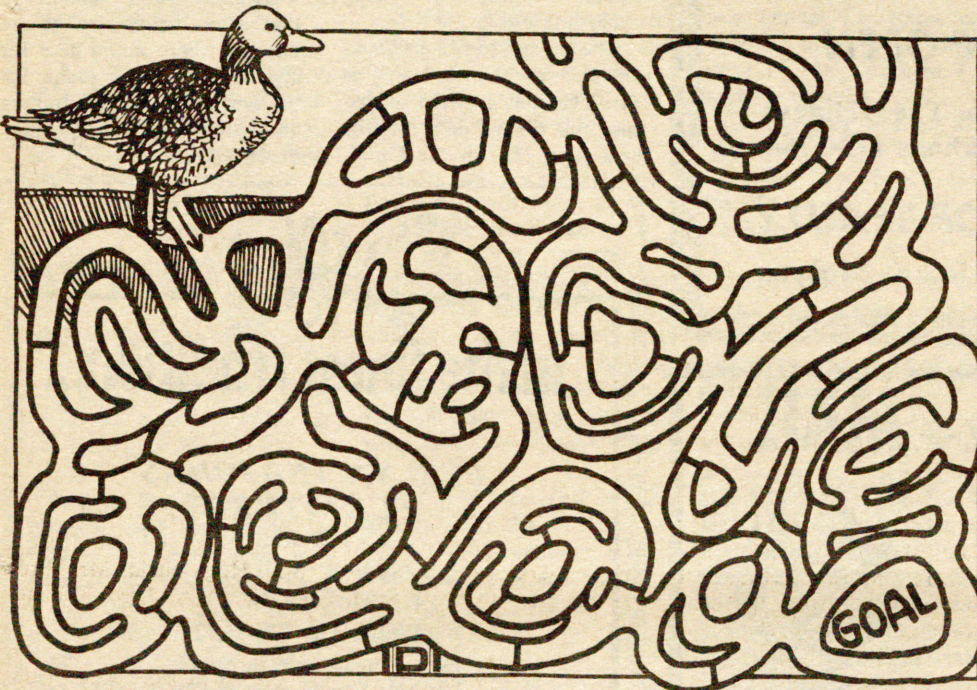

"Diagnosis in child psychiatry is more than just a data-gathering procedure however," Dr. Motto warns.

"It is evaluation of all the growth-promoting and growth-retarding forces in the child's life as they interact to produce conflicts. This has to include the family, especially the parents, in the diagnostic process."

HAPPY MEDIUM -- "A resort to severe punishment to modify behavior sometimes is self-defeating," says Dr. James B. Appel of the University of Chicago. He believes that if punishment is too mild it will not be effective, and if too severe will create a fear state that inhibits good behavior.

MEDICOPTER -- Ohio State University hospitals in Columbus uses an Ohio National Guard helicopter as an ambulance for distant emergency uses. The craft has a radio link with the hospital and the Ohio State Patrol, enabling the medical personnel aboard to prepare properly for any accident to which they've been called.

LIFELIKE LIMBS -- Andrew L. Lipay, a medical engineer, has helped doctors at the Quebec Rehabilitation Institute of Montreal to perfect artificial arms and hands that not only look like real but can be operated either electronically by external power or by brain-muscle control.

The Junior Scientist Strange Goose Migration

Copyright 1968 World Book
Science Service

How do birds find their way on their fantastically long migratory voyages? Only the birds know for sure.

Everybody knows that almost all birds migrate. Scientists have some evidence that some birds seem to use the stars or the sun to find their way.

But nobody has really figured out exactly how the birds manage their annual feats.

One of the most amazing travelers is the Graylag goose, which settles in western Siberia near Lake Chaney and migrates 2,000 miles to the Ganges Valley in India.

These geese mate every springtime and spend the summer incubating their eggs and rearing about six goslings per couple. In August, the geese begin scratching around and acting restless.

Finally, they all gather at one point on the shore of Lake Chaney. When all the families are assembled, they set off on their yearly migration.

You probably picture tens of thousands of birds taking flight. No... they walk! They get the urge to migrate before their feathers have regrown after molting.

So they have to spend the first week or so walking.

This causes the whole 2,000-mile trip to take about three weeks.

Once the geese get enough feathers to enable them to fly, they can cruise along at 45 miles an hour all night long. Top speed for the graylags is 70 miles an hour!

Graylags in migration fly only at night. On their route, they fly over the Gobi Desert and the Himalayas, where they climb to altitudes of at least 16,000 feet.

As you might suspect, many do not survive this rough trip.

Are you a good navigator? Show this goose the shortest path through the maze to the goal.

LIGHT FRAME

The skeleton of a blue whale makes up only about 17 per cent of the animal's weight, much less than the skeleton of a land mammal. This low proportion is possible because much of a whale's weight is supported by water, while the bones of a land mammal must carry its entire weight.

A new system of controlling environment in operating rooms is reducing airborne contamination tenfold.

Ultra-clean air passing through a wall of high efficiency filters flows horizontally across the room, picking up dust particles and bacteria and carrying them off through vents. The air is then refiltered and recirculated.

The laminar airflow concept was first developed for industrial "clean rooms" for assembling critical electronic components and contamination-free units for space projects.

Air is changed completely 240 times every 60 minutes, compared with eight to 12 air changes in an ordinary room.

Tests were conducted by the Environmental Services Branch of the National Institutes of Health, Division of Research Services, in collaboration with the Surgical Neurology Branch of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases.

"WHO SAYS SO?" We do. It's a trend.

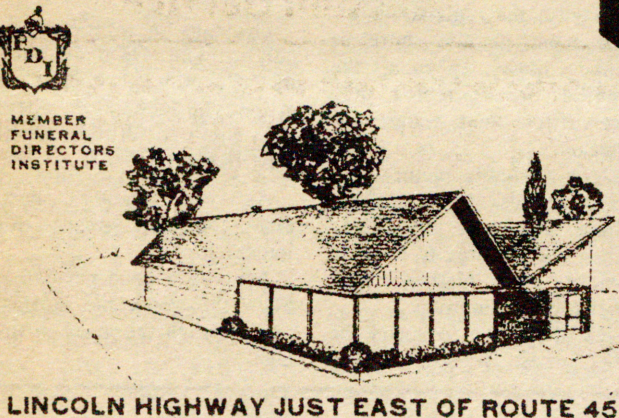

"HOW COME?" Checks do a better job. Cash is easily lost, easily spent. It's dangerous to hold and attracts criminals. Look at the crime rate.

"WHAT'S THE COST?" Depends upon the number of checks you write and your balance. Internal Revenue likes to see a cancelled check as evidence of a deduction.

4-Cards of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank all our friends neighbors & relatives also Rev. Miles for their many, many kindnesses shown us at the recent death of our beloved Father & Husband.

The Family Of
JOHN E. FEDAK

CARD OF THANKS
WORDS do not sufficiently express our appreciation, to relatives and friends, for the many cards, flowers, and visits during the illness of my dear sister, Clida O. Deadmore; and to all the nurses, aides, helpers and the physicians who labored to make her comfortable. She greatly enjoyed each card and visit while a patient in Sunny Hill Nursing Home. And to those who sent cards, flowers, memorial gifts, helped in our home following her death Nov. 20th, and for the consoling words of the Rev. Howard J. Miller and for the services of the Bearers, we will always gratefully remember.
Margaret M. Semmler
Mokena, Ill.

OUR GRATEFUL THANKS
WE in the Tamosiunas family would like to express our sincere appreciation to the many friends in Tinley Park who, by their presence and kind words of sympathy by mail and phone, has made our sorrow more bearable. Especially do we want to express our heartfelt thanks to the Tinley Park Police who, out of the generosity of their hearts gave blood donations when Rita was in need of them. The blood donors were officers Robert Guest, Walter Barton, Jerry Behrens, and Andrew Merenowicz. Again, may God Bless you and may you one day experience, as we have, the true love of God's people.
The Tamosiunas Family

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our Father who entered eternal rest December 3, 1967.

Little did we know that morning the sorrow the day would bring. A sudden call from God above took from us the one we loved. No words nor warning. No last farewell but in our hearts we know he's in a place of rest. His thoughtfulness and kindness will always be remembered for our loss is heaven's gain and there some day we'll meet again.

Teach Home Ec.

The Home Economics department at Lincoln - Way is fulfilling a state requirement by including consumer education in their curriculum. Statistics show the average family wastes time and money by not shopping wisely. Teaching consumer education helps students to be better buyers by learning skills in selecting, purchasing, and understanding the uses of a product.

"We emphasize the reading of labels, instructions, hang tags, and other information about a product before buying," a department spokesman said. "In foods classes we compare prices, time of preparation, and taste in evaluating the advantages and disadvantages of box mixes to conventional mixing. Child development classes learn how to shop for safe and educational toys.

"Other classes include consumer education in relation to foods, furniture, appliances, home furnishings, clothing, cosmetics, and many other household goods. We also discuss the facts and fallacies of advertising and learn the effect it has on consumer buying.

"More money than ever is passing through the hands of teen-agers. Knowing $3 billion a year is spent by U.S. youth the homemaking department has an obligation to help them learn to shop wisely."

Librarian Describes 4 Of the New Books

TELEPHONE 479-9321

The Mokena District Library has some new books to offer to the public. Among these new arrivals are, "Dreams--the Dark Speech of the Spirit," by Morton F. Kelsey; "How Children Fail," by John Holt; "Catch-22," by Joseph Heller, and "A Time to Build," by Michael Novak.

Elaine Reckhammer, librarian, gives a brief outline of these books.

"Dreams -- the Dark Speech of the Spirit," she said traces attitudes toward dreams from the Old Testament to the present. Kelsey's summary suggests that dreams play a significant role in the life of man.

"How Children Fail" explores the reason why most children fail to develop more than a small part of their capacity for learning and creating.

"Catch-22" is described as an "outrageous comedy," and some readers claim it to be the best American novel to come out of World War II.

"A Time to Build" is a collection of essays presenting the views of young liberal Catholics.

Library hours are from 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays, 2 to 5:00, Tuesday thru Friday, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays.

The Mokena Woman's Club will hold its regular monthly meeting next Monday, Dec. 9, in the home of Mrs. Louise McGann.

Co-hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Corinne Smith and Miss Adeline Semmler. The evening will be a social one in keeping with the spirit of the Christmas season.

St. Mary Altar and Rosary Society members are working hard to complete all the details required when a group puts on a bazaar, especially one at Yule time.

The group at St. Mary is having its Christmas bazaar this weekend, from 9 a.m. on Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

There will be an abundant supply of homemade articles, fancy work. Christmas decorations, plus a grab bag and a country store. The store will offer a variety of things too, it was said, including homemade bread, cookies and candy.

There will be a luncheon on Friday, at 12 noon. Tickets for this affair will be $1.50 for adults and 25 cents for pre-schoolers.

Hospital Apprentice Robert D. Peterson, USN, 20, has completed the Field Medical Service School at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Le June, N.C. He is the son of Mrs. Clara L. Peterson, 20020 Wolf Rd., Mokena. In the last week of training he participated in a three-day field exercise for practical application of subjects taughts in the classroom.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Margraf, 11045 Denny St., at Silver Cross Hospital, Nov. 23. He has been named Michael Allan. Infant and mother came home Nov. 27.

The Mokena kindergarten classes will present their Christmas program next Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 10, at Carpenter Street School, beginning at 2 o'clock.

There will be songs, verses and action rhymes. The program will be highlighted with a Nativity scene, scenes depicting the preparation and anticipation of Christmas and a scene centering on Santa Claus.

Teachers of the four classes are Carol Cady, Marilyn Sievert and Carmen Windle.

Parents, relatives and friends are invited to attend the program that will be staged in the school gymnasium.

The Mokena Fire Department

ment is home again. Improvement of Front St., compelling the department to move its trucks to the Friant Garage on North Wolf Rd. but they can be kept in the Engin House. Front St. will not be completed until next Spring but the concrete driveway for the fire house has been laid and rigs can be moved in and out.

The department is quite appreciative of the support given its pre-Thanksgiving party at which 120 turkeys were given away. Proceeds from this and other activities are to be used in the purchase of a new radio system, which will include a new tower, base station, mobile units and home receivers for the firemen.

The rubbish containers which stand on the sidewalks in business areas are intended to keep the walks free of litter. Complaints have been voiced the past couple of weeks that someone has been remiss in emptying these containers. The container in front of the post office has been running over for the past week or more, making an ugly litter on the sidewalk. From the litter it is apparent that someone has used the trash container for a garbage can.

What's a year's worth of electric heat cost?

Hint: Think small.

The fact is, electric heat costs have come down so much in the last ten years, that sometimes it surprises even us. Of course, we've done our best to help, by lowering electric rates dramatically during that period.

Actually, you pay about $200 a year for electric heat in a typical six-room house with proper insulation--the kind most people buy.

It all boils down to the fact that you don't have to make a lot of money to have electric heat in your home.

So don't be surprised if someday we say "Think tiny."
